“Pouhon Pierre le Grand” : the spring that cured Tsar Peter the Great in 1717

“Source de la Géronstère” : the raging

“Sources de la Sauvenière” : in the steps of Saint Remacle

Water as a source of life...

The city of Spa has a large number of springs, known as “pouhons”.

The Pouhon Pierre le Grand is the main spring of Spa, naturally sparkling, full of minerals and rich in iron, its taste will surprise you.

The nearby Pouhon Prince de Condé spring comes from the same water table but has a richer mineral composition.

The Tonnelet spring, discovered in 1559, owes its name to the fact that it was collected in a barrel at the time. It is the same water as the Finesse water from the Spa Monopole group, but as it is collected at the spring, ferruginous and carbo-gassy.

The water from the Géronstère spring has a sulphurous taste and is known for its strong taste. A lovely walk named after the famous German composer Meyerbeer will take you to the Barisart spring, and on the way you will discover the deferrisateur.

The springs of La Sauvenière and Groesbeek spring up a few meters from each other. The first one was once the most frequented spring in Spa.

The winter garden of the Pouhon Pierre le Grand

Azur Gallery

2. #inspirations

Spa offers an exceptional cultural life with its exhibitions, museums and festivals.

The winter garden of the Pouhon Pierre le Grand, initially built for the rest of the curists, is today a splendid place of exhibition under a large zenithal glass roof, various exhibitions are proposed there.

The Prince de Condé Gallery is the building that houses the lung of the same name. The metal and glass construction typical of the late 19th century and its contemporary pyramid offers exhibitions from May to October.

The Galerie Azur in the heart of the city offers exhibitions of contemporary art throughout the year.

The museum of the town of water and horses presents Spa story or the fabulous history of a small Ardennes town now recognised as a Unesco World Heritage Site. A fascinating story for young and old. Located in the royal villa, residence of Queen Marie-Henriette in the last century, you will also discover the stables, which have been converted into a horse museum telling the story of Spa's equestrian history since 1773.

The unusual laundry museum will take you on a discovery of laundry techniques before the invention of the washing machine and soap!

The regiment of the 12th Line Prince Leopold and 13th Line Museum

Listen to birdsong, observe wild animals and discover the riches of Spa's water, this is the visit offered by the Water and Forest Museum. A rich and fascinating visit. The youngest will lead the owl investigation, a treasure hunt designed for a playful discovery.

Spa is also home to the regiment of the 12th and 13th Line. A memorial museum retraces the military history of the regiment in Spa and presents a didactic journey through the great events of Belgian history.

Stavelot Abbey

The December 44 Historical Museum

The Franchimont Castle

What to see in the surroundings

Stavelot Abbey, one of the oldest monastic foundations in Belgium, is home to 3 exceptional museums: the Spa-Francorchamps circuit museum, the Guillaume Apollinaire museum and the Stavelot-Malmedy Principality museum.

The December 44 Historical Museum, located in La Gleize, retraces the last major operations of the Battle of the Bulge through a vast collection of objects and exceptional displays.

Finally, Franchimont Castle, located in Theux, is one of the 12 former strongholds of the Principality of Liege. The remains of the medieval castle are worth a visit. The museum retraces the history of the castle through models representing the fortress through the centuries, and objects of daily life found in the excavations are also on display.

No less than 200 kilometres of hiking trails invite you to discover the forest, 70 kilometres of exclusive trail routes criss-cross the region and there are also connections to nearby trail routes.

Spa is also at the crossroads of several long-distance hiking trails.

3 GR trails cross the spa town.

The GR 15 “Sentiers de l’Ardenne”, from Arlon to Montjoie; the GR 573 “Vesdre et Hautes-Fagnes” Liège - Botrange - Pepinster, and the mythical GR 5 “Mer du Nord - Méditerranée”.

You can also follow the brand new “Chemin des Sources”. A 165 km hike to be done in stages to discover the region in a different way, as close as possible to nature and the population.

The RAVEL has undoubtedly added to the appeal of the hikes.

For cycling enthusiasts, the recently introduced network of node points allows you to plan your ride as you wish!

www.liegetourisme/parcours-pointsnoeuds

This network completes the sports circuits created for mountain biking and enduro biking, in fact Spa has a enduro biking park named MTB Trails Spa.

The European Route of History Spa Towns is one of 38 routes certified by the Council of Europe, all based on themes of importance to Europe's cultural heritage by the Council of Europe.

The best known is undoubtedly the pilgrimage route to Santiago de Compostela, a symbol of European unification and identity.

At the heart of each spa town there are one or more springs, these natural mineral sources are the catalyst for the development of an innovative spatial organisation model, dedicated to curative, therapeutic and social functions.

The first tourists came to the springs "to take the waters" to improve their health and as the thermal complexes developed for the treatments around the springs, places of reception, entertainment and lodging intended for the curists were also born, until the thermal city as we know it today, was built around several architectural elements with the same objective: to facilitate the healing and well-being of visitors, both for the body and the mind.
